EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

HISTORY OF THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER MOVEMENT

- The Family Justice Center framework, first established in San Diego in 2002, offers a comprehensive and collaborative approach to addressing domestic and sexual violence.<sup>1</sup> Family Justice Centers bring together professionals and services under one roof, providing a safe and supportive environment for adult and child survivors.

The Family Justice Center movement is one of the most significant advances in the domestic and sexual violence prevention movement in more than 40 years. Since its start in 2002, the Family Justice Center movement has expanded considerably, with over 150 Family Justice Centers operating in the United States and another 150 Centers operating in more than 25 countries around the world.

DEFINITIONS: KEY ASPECTS OF FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS

- CO-LOCATION OF SERVICES: Family Justice Centers are designed to minimize the need for survivors to navigate multiple agencies, going many places, and telling their story repeatedly. Family Justice Centers offer a wide range of services, including civil legal services, law enforcement investigations, prosecution, medical examinations and treatment, counseling, and advocacy.<sup>2</sup> This framework has been shown to improve access to services, increase hope and wellbeing, reduce recantation, reduce homicides, and increase successful prosecution of offenders.<sup>3</sup>
- COLLABORATIVE APPROACH: Family Justice Centers emphasize collaboration among different stakeholders, including law enforcement professionals, prosecutors, healthcare providers, social workers, advocacy and shelter services organizations, and other government agencies and nonprofit organizations.<sup>4</sup> This integrated approach ensures a more coordinated and effective response to domestic and sexual violence for both adult and child survivors.<sup>5</sup>

- SURVIVOR-CENTERED FOCUS: Family Justice Centers prioritize the needs and experiences of survivors. They offer a welcoming and supportive, trauma-informed, hope-centered environment where survivors, both adults and children, feel safe and empowered.<sup>6</sup> The model emphasizes survivor satisfaction, increases in victim safety and offender accountability, and survivor-defined goal attainment.<sup>7</sup>

FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS ARE A BEST PRACTICE WITH POWERFUL OUTCOMES

- REDUCTION IN DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HOMICIDES: Family Justice Centers have demonstrated a significant impact on reducing domestic violence homicides.<sup>8</sup> Cities with robust FJs have seen dramatic drops in homicide rates, highlighting the effectiveness of this approach, including a 90% drop in domestic violence homicides in San Diego City and County.<sup>9</sup>
- FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS WITH A FOCUS ON STRANGULATION: Family Justice Centers with specialized protocols for the handling of non and near-fatal strangulation assaults report the greatest reductions in domestic violence homicides.<sup>10</sup> Effective intervention with stranglers is homicide prevention.<sup>11</sup>
- IMPROVED SURVIVOR OUTCOMES: Studies have shown that Family Justice Center services led to increased victim safety, hope, wellbeing, empowerment, and access to supportive services.<sup>12</sup> Survivors report feeling supported and satisfied with the services provided.<sup>13</sup>

- POSITIVE IMPACT ON PROFESSIONALS: Professionals working within FJs report increased job satisfaction and a greater sense of collaboration.<sup>14</sup> They acknowledge the benefits of multi-disciplinary work, the ease of connecting with other professionals, and the positive impact it has on survivors.<sup>15</sup>
- BEST PRACTICE APPROACH: The Family Justice Center framework has been considered an evidence-based best practice approach to serving trauma survivors by the USDOJ since 2007.<sup>16</sup>
- FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS WITH CAMP HOPE AMERICA PROGRAMS: Family Justice Centers with an affiliated Camp HOPE America mentoring and camping program help children break the generational cycles of violence.<sup>17</sup>

FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS PRODUCE TRANSFORMATIVE COMMUNITY IMPACTS

- COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT: Family Justice Centers actively engage with their communities, raising awareness about domestic and sexual violence and fostering partnerships with local organizations.<sup>18</sup> This community involvement contributes to a more comprehensive and effective response to domestic and sexual violence.
- SYSTEMIC CHANGE: By bringing together diverse stakeholders, Family Justice Centers can initiate systemic changes in how domestic and sexual violence is addressed.<sup>19</sup> Family Justice Centers advocate for policy reforms and improved responses from law enforcement, the civil and criminal justice system, and healthcare providers. Legislation related to FJC's is also evolving across the country.

SURVIVORS STRONGLY SUPPORT THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER FRAMEWORK

National VOICES Survivor group with members representing 35 VOICES Chapters located around the United States.

- SURVIVOR RESEARCH: More than 230 focus groups conducted in communities planning Family Justice Centers, 100% of survivors of domestic and sexual violence express a strong interest in going ONE PLACE for all their services.<sup>20</sup>

THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER MOVEMENT IS GROWING RAPIDLY

- CONTINUED RESEARCH AND EVALUATION: While FJCs have demonstrated positive outcomes, ongoing research and evaluation are crucial to measure their effectiveness and identify areas for improvement for individual Centers.<sup>21</sup>
- EXPANSION AND SUSTAINABILITY: The Family Justice Center movement continues to expand, with more Centers being established across the United States and internationally. Ensuring the sustainability and high-level standards of these Centers and securing adequate funding is vital for their long-term success.<sup>22</sup>
- ADDRESSING EMERGING NEEDS: Family Justice Centers are constantly evolving to meet the changing needs of survivors. This includes addressing issues such as polyvictimization, trauma-informed care, and the unique needs of diverse populations.<sup>23</sup>

Overall, the Family Justice Center framework offers a promising solution to addressing domestic and sexual violence and reduces the costs of violence intervention and prevention. By providing a centralized, collaborative, and survivor-centered approach, Family Justice Centers have the potential to make a significant impact on the lives of adult and child survivors with powerful efficiencies and economies of scale and profound homicide reduction.

FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER FRAMEWORK IMPACT REPORT

Participants at the 24th Annual International Family Justice Center Conference in May, 2024.

Coordinated community response, the coordination of professionals working to help victims of domestic and sexual violence, developed first in Duluth, MN in the 1980's and became a hallmark of the 1994 Violence Against Women Act. Coordinated community response (CCR) seeks to bring advocacy programs, law enforcement, criminal justice, human service and other agencies together to coordinate their responses, integrating best practices into the infrastructure of case processing so that victims and their children are safer, offenders are held more accountable, and the responsibility for ending the violence is shifted from the victim to the community.<sup>24</sup> But a CCR does not co-locate professionals or create a community for survivors long after the crisis. Family Justice Centers create wraparound services for adult and child survivors of domestic and sexual violence, providing a long-term community of safety, support, and healing.<sup>25</sup>

1. HISTORY OF THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER MOVEMENT

- The Family Justice Center movement began with the opening of the San Diego Family Justice Center in 2002. The San Diego Family Justice Center became the largest, co-located collaborative ever created anywhere in the world, with 25 agencies all working under one roof, to focus on serving survivors (adults and children) of domestic and sexual violence.<sup>26</sup>
- This Impact Report includes published outcomes, findings, process studies, important facts about Family Justice Centers, and endorsements from survivors, professionals, and elected officials. It was prepared by the Family Justice Center Alliance (FJCA), a program of Alliance for HOPE International. For support in developing, operating, or sustaining a Family Justice Center, contact the Alliance at fjca@allianceforhope.com.
- The first Family Justice Center was created in 2002 in a partnership between then-San Diego City Attorney Casey Gwinn and then-San Diego Police Chief David Bejarano and the San Diego Domestic Violence Council, including 25 agencies with onsite staff (120 professionals) and 120 volunteers on any given day.<sup>27</sup>
- Today, there are Family Justice Centers in 45 US states and 25 countries totaling more than 300 Family Justice Centers worldwide. In January 2003, Oprah Winfrey profiled the San Diego Family Justice Center for two days on her national show, sending information on the framework around the world. Within two years, site visitors from 77 countries had visited the San Diego Family Justice Center.<sup>28</sup>
- In October of 2003, President George W. Bush announced the creation of the President's Family Justice Center Initiative. $20 million was allocated to spread the Family Justice Center framework across the country and led to the development of the first 15 Family Justice Centers in urban, rural, suburban, and tribal communities.
- Currently, California has the most Family Justice Centers of any state in the US with 30 Centers open and more in development.
- As of 2024, there are over 150 Family Justice Centers in the United States, 70 affiliated with the Alliance for HOPE International, and 25+ currently in development.
- The majority of all survivors (adults and children) served in Centers in the US are women and children of color. Family Justice Centers also serve male victims. For more information about the movement go to: familyjusticecenter.org.

2. WHAT ARE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS?

- Family Justice Centers bring together police officers, prosecutors, advocates, doctors, nurses, civil attorneys, therapists, and other professionals in ONE PLACE to help adult and child survivors of domestic and sexual violence find safety, hope, and healing. Family Justice Centers dramatically reduce the number of places victims must go for help and the number of times they must tell their story.<sup>29</sup>
  - The Family Justice Center collaborative model is the product of nearly 20 years of local and national work to end family violence and has been informed by the work of child advocacy centers, domestic violence response teams, coordinated community responses, community-oriented policing, domestic violence courts, specialized units, community-based programs, and domestic violence shelters.<sup>30</sup>
  - In 2004, clients came to the San Diego Family Justice Center between 1 and 11 times. They were referred to the Center by police (44%), prosecutors (9%), shelters (9%), on-site community partner agencies (8%), friends (6%), family members (1%), media (1%), and other (22%).
- Survivors were primarily seeking civil legal assistance (42%), as well as help from detectives (6%), city attorney advocates (9%), transportation (12%), military advocates (3%), and other help such as chaplain services, counseling, or medical/forensic documentation (22%).<sup>31</sup>
- "The Family Justice Center concept is the logical extension of community-oriented policing. It is about getting the public and private sectors to truly come together in a shared mission to enhance public safety by protecting families from violence and abuse."
—Former San Diego Mayor Jerry Sanders<sup>32</sup>
  - "The Family Justice Center movement will play a powerful role in the years to come in providing help to victims of family violence. When I visited the San Diego Family Justice Center, the innovation, dedication and compassion I saw there was truly remarkable..."
—U.S. Senator John Kerry<sup>33</sup>
  - Most Family Justice Centers now serve adult and child survivors of domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault, elder abuse, and human trafficking.<sup>34</sup>

3. FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS ARE A BEST PRACTICE MODEL, SUPPORTED BY RESEARCH

- Family Justice Center impacts and outcomes are supported by peer reviewed, academic research and evaluation.<sup>35</sup>
- Family Justice Centers are capable of meeting survivor needs, satisfying clients, reducing homicides, increasing victim safety, making victims more autonomous and empowered, reducing fear and anxiety among victims and their children, helping victims avoid recanting or minimizing their experiences, making service providers more efficient and collaborative, making offenders more likely to be prosecuted, and connecting victims and their children with support services.<sup>36</sup>
- The Family Justice Center provides a more supportive experience for victims, it also increases efficiency in service provision, reduces victim recantation, increases prosecution of offenders, and ultimately reduces crimes.<sup>37</sup>
- Motivational interviewing (MI) in Family Justice Centers holds promise in aiding intimate partner violence survivors about whether to accept help, leave the abusive relationship, or participate in criminal justice processes.<sup>38</sup>
- Family Justice Centers offer a safer future for victims of domestic and sexual violence.<sup>39</sup>
- There is broad consensus that collaborative practices are essential to the resolution of [IPV] situations.<sup>40</sup>
- Family Justice Centers are an important service for health care providers to be aware of because they help address life-altering social determinants of health.<sup>41</sup>
- Collaborative practices have the potential to be more comprehensive and coherent in addressing the distinct needs of family members struggling with IPV.<sup>42</sup>
- [Collaborative practices] can also initiate systemic changes by pointing organizations with different philosophical stances toward a common goal.<sup>43</sup>
- Collaborative practices are considered critical to ensure the IPV victim's safety and the perpetrator's accountability because they are often more effective in reducing risks.<sup>44</sup>
- The results highlight that Family Justice Center clients reported feeling physically and emotionally safe accessing mental healthcare at a Family Justice Center.<sup>45</sup>
- A key component of co-locating mental health services at Family Justice Centers was a marked reduction in wait and travel times for Family Justice Center clients to access care, which diminished a critical barrier for accessing care for clients while also improving Family Justice Center staff morale and ability to provide services in their respective roles.<sup>46</sup>

4. SURVIVORS STRONGLY SUPPORT THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER FRAMEWORK

- As demonstrated in this report, Family Justice Centers were developed to improve the outcomes and lives of survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, human trafficking, and other forms of trauma. The opinions of survivors are key to development and sustainability of Family Justice Centers and survivors strongly support the ability to go one place for their services.
- "I think they saved my life. I don't know where I would have gone if I didn't have the Family Justice Center."
—Jenn Lawford, San Diego Family Justice Center
VOICES Founding Member
- 100% of survivors in more than 230 groups conducted by Alliance for HOPE International in the last 20 years consistently say that they would like to be able to go to one place for help instead of having to go from agency to agency, telling their story over and over.<sup>47</sup>
- The Milwaukee Sojourner Family Peace Center found 96% of clients were satisfied or quite satisfied with services in one of the largest Family Justice Centers in America with statistically significant increases in survivor-defined goal attainment, empowerment, and hope.<sup>48</sup>
- "When I had to file charges, I was thinking, 'Do I really want to do this? Do I want to tell this story again?' That downtime in the middle of everything can be confusing as you're wondering if you should even go through with it. If we could have a Family Justice Center here, that would make it easier for us."
—Jamie Gadson, San Diego Family Justice Center client,
VOICES Founding Member
- "It's hard to sum up six years of threats, hatred, and fear, which I know isn't over yet. I've spent the past six years with my son's father targeting and harassing me and anyone that had anything to do with me. During the ins and outs of going to court, I was able to use the Family Justice Center in exposing my abuser and taking the necessary steps to get him prosecuted. The Center's support has given me and my children a chance to live our lives free of harm, fear, heartache, and everything else that goes along with it."
—Beverly, VOICES Member
- "The trauma of being abused is bad enough and going to scary locations in town only makes a difficult situation even worse."
—Survivor
- Despite the lack of information pertaining to survivor outcomes, study findings indicated a high degree of provider and survivor satisfaction with Family Justice Center models.<sup>49</sup>
- "I think everything is working. I like that when I make an appointment, they see me right away. I set a time and at that time [they are] there waiting for me. Not like other places, I have friends who go places and they're in the waiting room for hours maybe."
—Survivor, NYC FJCMHP Client<sup>50</sup>
- "The god's honest truth if it wasn't for [FJCMHP], I wouldn't be here; they saved my life. It was horrible-- and it's very hard for me to trust anybody because of my background--but they made me feel so comfortable, and they understood where I was coming from."

5. FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS PRODUCE POWERFUL COLLECTIVE IMPACTS

- Family Justice Centers are organizations of change. They develop and host trainings, help bridge the gaps between institutions and communities and improve the lives of individuals who walk through their doors. They impact survivors, professionals, and the community at large.<sup>52</sup>
- Family Justice Centers have a positive impact on the work of professionals working in Centers.<sup>53</sup>
- 100% of families experienced an increase in safety, 80% reported an increase in empowerment related to their ability to advocate for themselves, make informed choices, and to navigate complex systems; and 75% of families experienced an increase in protective factors and resilience in the prevention of secondary assault or re-assault.<sup>54</sup>
- New community resources emerge through Family Justice Center partnerships.<sup>55</sup>
- Survivors feel supported by Family Justice Center staff and services.<sup>56</sup>
- Family Justice Centers are uniquely situated to treat poly-victims' underlying vulnerabilities because the centers consolidate various services in one location.<sup>57</sup>
- Family Justice Centers improve access to services and outcomes at Child Advocacy Centers.<sup>58</sup>
- Family Justice Centers provide safe, effective immigration legal services to undocumented survivors of violence and abuse.<sup>59</sup>
- Family Justice Centers have been found to increase community-based organizations (CBOs) effectiveness, increase survivor safety and empowerment, reduce survivor fear, and reduce homicides.<sup>60</sup>
- "Whole Health" responses to domestic violence had meaningful impacts on victim-survivor experiences of enquiry, disclosure, and uptake of services and had the potential to meaningfully impact health inequities.<sup>61</sup>
- By collaborating with Family Justice Centers, trauma center outcomes contribute to a pathway to healing and may prevent future acts of intentional injuries.<sup>62</sup>

6. FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS DRAMATICALLY REDUCE DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HOMICIDES

- One critical impact Family Justice Centers have is the reduction of domestic violence homicides. When survivors go to dynamic Family Justice Centers, they don't die. Conversely, cities without dynamic Family Justice Centers have some of the highest domestic violence homicides rates in the country. Dynamic Family Justice Centers dramatically reduce the likelihood of a client being murdered.
- In 2017, Washington Post homicide data found some of the lowest domestic violence homicides rates in the country in cities with dynamic Family Justice Centers including San Diego, Fort Worth, and Brooklyn.<sup>63</sup>
- The Family Justice Center framework contributed to a 90% drop in domestic violence homicides in the City of San Diego, a 75% reduction in domestic violence homicides in Alameda County (CA), and a 51% drop in Brooklyn (NYC).<sup>64</sup>

7. PRACTITIONERS AND PROFESSIONALS SUPPORT THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER FRAMEWORK

- Front line staff, professionals, partner agencies, and communities must buy-in to have a successful and dynamic Family Justice Center. Professionals agree that the Family Justice Center model is robust, and it works.
- Stakeholders perceive benefit to survivors even during the planning and development process of a Family Justice Center.<sup>65</sup>
- The positive impact of the co-location of services at the Brooklyn Family Justice Center was a critical factor for increasing witnesses coming to the DA's office on pending prosecutions of domestic violence cases.<sup>66</sup>
- You can't work in silos in IPV, it's impossible. If we do, then we are doomed to fail.<sup>67</sup>
- Warm hand-offs [like in Family Justice Centers] break silos and ensure IPV survivor connections to community-based care.<sup>68</sup>
- Co-location in hospitals encouraged confidence among healthcare professionals about responding to domestic violence and abuse and meant survivors--including those hidden to other services--could get specialist support quickly.<sup>69</sup>
- There are no negatives [in Family Justice Centers], except that there are not enough mental health professionals to meet the demands.<sup>70</sup>

8. THERE IS STRONG BI-PARTISAN SUPPORT FOR THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER FRAMEWORK

- Family Justice Centers are designed to bring victim advocates, civil legal attorneys, legal advocates, government victim assistance, prosecutors, law enforcement, and representatives from community-based organizations into one central location. At Family Justice Centers, survivors of intimate partner violence, sexual assault, child abuse, and elder abuse have access to critically important wraparound resources. Survivors can receive assistance in obtaining temporary restraining orders, finding safe housing, meeting prosecutors, working with detectives, and obtaining forensic exams.
- "Family Justice Centers are leading the way forward in the domestic violence movement. They are challenging us to think outside the box--to keep growing, changing, and evolving as we work to prevent family violence."
–Sarah Buel (Survivor, Advocate, Law Professor)
- "The Family Justice Center saves lives. This money could sit in an account for the rest of this fiscal year and pad an account with reserves or we could use it to save lives." –California State Assemblyman Tim Grayson
- "Family Justice Centers are the future of community-oriented policing in America."
–Former Attorney General Eric Holder
- "Imagine what it would be like if you were an abused person trying to find help and you went from one place to another....there's a better way to do this. There's a better way to help people who need help in our society... San Diego figured it out. There's [now] a central location where somebody who desperately needs help can find compassion and hope."
–President George W. Bush

9. LOCAL, STATE, FEDERAL, AND PRIVATE DONOR MONIES SUPPORT FAMILY JUSTICE CENTERS

- Major city, county, and state money (general fund revenue, sales taxes, certified records fees, new market tax credits, and bond measures) have helped build and fund Family Justice Centers in California, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, New York, Washington, Maryland, Colorado, Georgia, Florida, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Connecticut, and Louisiana.
- Palomar Family Justice Center in Oklahoma City has the largest public funding ($38 million from a local MAPS tax).

Palomar: Oklahoma's Family Justice Center - Strategic Planning.

10. THE FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER'S CAMP HOPE AMERICA PROGRAM SAVES CHILDREN

- One of the major programs that has arisen from the Family Justice Center movement is the development of Camp HOPE America. Camp HOPE is the first year-round camping and mentoring program in the United States focused on children impacted by domestic violence and trauma. The mission of Camp HOPE America is to help children who have been exposed to trauma find pathways to HOPE and healing.
- In 2023, campers saw statistically significant increases in HOPE scores pre and post camp, and their increases continued 30 days after camp. Hope predicts wellbeing after trauma. A two-point sustained increase in hope is a letter grade in school for a child irrespective of race or IQ.<sup>71</sup> Hope reflects an individual's capacity to develop pathways and agency toward goals. Camp HOPE America uses a validated Children's Hope Scale, examining children's belief in establishing pathways to their goals and maintaining the drive to follow through. Each year, campers at Camp HOPE America show a significant increase in hope.
- Camp HOPE America children have an average Adverse Childhood Experiences Score of 6.14 and are more likely to become criminal justice involved than children with less childhood trauma. But published outcomes have made clear that Camp HOPE America children, with increased Hope scores and long-term support, do not experience these devastating long-term outcomes.<sup>72</sup>
- In addition to the week-long camp activities, Camp HOPE America includes yearlong mentoring activities through the Pathways program. Camp HOPE America and their Pathways Program produces long-term increases in hope, resiliency, gratitude, grit, zeal, and improves academic outcomes for children impacted by trauma.<sup>73</sup>
